

SMART BOOST FOR 20 CITIES

Vivek Singhal, president - corporate strategy, M3M Group

I think, well begun is half done. Irrespective of which cities made it to the first list, I believe this is a step in the right direction and would bring about a paradigm shift. India is at a point of transition currently where the pace of urbanization will speed up in coming years and smart cities is the only solution to ensure sustainable growth. Besides, Government should also promote Smart sub-cities or townships which shall have all the components of smart cities embedded right from design stage.